 - 1.2 University employees are free to express their personal opinions on any matter, so long as such opinions are not offered as opinions of the University, or The Texas A&M University System. When expressing personal opinions, University employees shall inform their audience before and after presentations that the viewpoints expressed by the University employee are personal to the speaker and are not the official position of the University or The Texas A&M University System. University employees will conform in every respect to laws and policies governing their employment.

4. SPONSORSHIP OF POLITICAL CAMPAIGN MEETINGS, EVENTS OR SPEECHES BY RECOGNIZED STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS OR FACULTY/STAFF GROUPS

Student organizations that are officially chartered and currently registered with the Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi Student Activities Office and faculty or staff groups that are recognized by the University, other than faculty or staff groups officially organized and staffed by the University and which were created for the purpose of conducting official University business, may invite candidates for political office or current officeholders to speak at the group's meetings on campus, provided the following conditions are met:

- In sponsoring a partisan political activity on campus, the recognized student organization must notify the President's Office, Community Outreach and Public Affairs before the event occurs.
- In the interest of encouraging and maintaining the exchange of ideas, faculty members have the privilege to invite any guest they wish to speak in class. If the nature of the guest's visit relates to partisan political activity, the faculty member must notify the President's Office and Public Affairs prior to the speaker's visit.

- Adherence to University Rule 11.99.99.C3 Guest Speakers, Lecturers and Entertainers, is expected.
- The organization or group sponsoring an off-campus speaker has the responsibility of making clear the fact that the organization, not the University, is extending the invitation to speak and that any views the speaker may express are his or her own and not necessarily those of The Texas A&M University System or of Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi.
- Officially chartered and currently registered student organizations may post advertisements for their on-campus political events on the “open board” posting centers on campus, the student organizational web pages, social media, the University’s Facebook page and the iNews email with notification to the Office of Student Success and Engagement. A written statement from the sponsoring campus organization may be requested by the President or designee to clarify the nature of the visit.
